

KAIKEN RESERVA CABERNET SAUVIGNON 2015

VINEYARDS

All the grapes used for our Kaiken Cabernet Sauvignon are sourced from Agrelo vineyards. Agrelo is located 60 km away from the city of Mendoza at 950 meters above sea level. This silty clayey terroir sits on rocks swept down the Andes through water erosion and located two meters below surface. The climate is warmer than in the Uco Valley yielding grapes with more fruity flavors and aromas and very soft tannins.

HARVEST REPORT

The 2014-2015 harvest (from November to February) presented mean temperatures well below historic averages. Only in March did temperatures approach mean or close-to-mean values. These proved to be favorable conditions for white varieties. Slow ripening yielded very expressive wines. In Vistalba, January was marked by temperatures well above average values. Red varieties were marked by slow ripening until late March, especially as regards berry sugar content. Then, halfway through April the ripening process suddenly stepped up its pace.

WINEMAKING

The fruit for our Cabernet Sauvignon Reserva was hand-picked into 300kg-bins in April. The process was aimed at preserving berry quality and, therefore, fruit was selected manually in the winery. Must was fermented and macerated approximately for one month. After fermentation, 40% of the wine was aged for six months in French oak barrels, while the remaining 60% received no wood contact to highlight the fruity character of the wine and obtain soft silky tannins. Wine was slightly filtered through cartridges. After bottling, the wine was allowed to age in the bottle for at least six months to ensure full expression and optimum drinking conditions.

TASTING NOTES

Our Kaiken Cabernet Sauvignon Reserva has been made for daily consumption. With a great fruity character and incredibly soft tannins, this wine is wonderfully versatile and can be paired with many different kinds of dishes. A soft, deep red colored wine of medium to high intensity, with an expressive fruity nose with dominant notes of fresh red fruit intertwined with aromas of tobacco and spices from French oak aging. In the palate, the distinctive flavors of Cabernet Sauvignon are marked by an unusual beautiful softness in the mouth that allows pairing with different dishes and styles of cooking. These unique characteristics derive from Agrelo's distinctive terroir.
